

O'Fallon Veterinary Medical Center

Joel Farthing, DVM

To Whom It May Concern:

The experience that O'Fallon Veterinary Medical Center had with JHOOKER Construction in the construction of our project was positive throughout with the company and with its owner personally as well. The completion of a veterinary hospital, working specifically with a veterinary architect, requires many nuanced and rare types of demands to achieve a successful end result. We required numerous medical flooring types, had specific HVAC needs, as well as medical isolation wards and surgical suites.

John Hooker and his team made sure we were involved, informed, and satisfied with the process from beginning to end. He also made us aware of potential cost saving options, some of which we elected and were helpful in getting our project done at a significant savings. I can vouch for the service he provides to be honest, thorough, and of high quality, and his experience and the way he stands behind his work is an invaluable feature not easily found in this field.

Sincerely,

Joel Farthing, DVM

“ John and his team made sure we were involved, informed, and satisfied with the process from beginning to end. ”

